Healing Patients, Heating the Planet: Why Circularity Matters in Healthcare — ●KATHARINA HESELS — Siemens Healthineers Healthcare exists to save lives, yet paradoxically, it is a significant contributor to global warming, a crisis that increases mortality rates as temperatures rise. In this keynote, I will address this dual responsibility and share how circular economy principles can help reconcile patient care with planetary health. Through examples of refurbishment programmes, eco-design initiatives, and responsible usage of AI, we will explore how MedTech can reduce its carbon footprint without compromising clinical outcomes.
